Don:

I am planning to have an undergraduate student working with me this summer, and will have a need for a second PC, for my own use while the student uses my workstation for data processing.

I had planned to buy a new PC, but when I mentioned this to Israel, he informed me that he will have no further need of the PC in my office after he returns to Israel from this trip.

I'd like to discuss with you the possibility of my borrowing the PC and monitor for the summer months. Could we talk about it this morning or early afternoon, so I can let Israel know before he leaves?

Thanks.
